Oshkosh Still No. 1 in AP's Grid Ratings

No. 2 D. C. Everest
Wins 150th Game
For Howard Stiehm

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Oshkosh, which has coped with every challenge it has faced in this Wisconsin high school football season, kept its season-long lead today in the Associated Press' ratings of big school teams.

Oshkosh stayed there this week as a result of its 19-7 victory over tough Kaukauna last Friday night.

But Madison West, runnerup in last week's poll, dropped to a tie for eighth this week following a 24-15 defeat by Racine Park. Moving into the runnerup spot, 13 points behind Oshkosh, is Schofield.

Schofield, ranked third last week, flattened Merrill 41-0 last Saturday for its sixth victory in as many games. Oshkosh is 5-0.

The victory was the 150th in Howard Stiehm's coaching career—19 seasons at Everest and six at Marinette. The Evergreens, who have won 15 straight over two seasons, collide with unbeaten Marshfield this Saturday, with the winner expected to go on to the Wisconsin Valley Conference crown.

Minor Shuffling
The rest of this week's Big Ten list reflected minor shuffling. Green Bay East, which swamped Menasha 42-0 last week, jumped from sixth to third.

Eau Claire Memorial and Baraboo switched places, with the Abes climbing from fifth to fourth by a margin of one point over Baraboo.

Kohler, 48-0 winner over Ozaukee, polled 10 first place votes and leads the Little Ten again. In second place, 22 points behind, is Port Edwards, which defeated Wild Rose 26-6 for its 28th straight victory.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Here is the fourth weekly ratings of Wisconsin high school football teams, with voting by Associated Press member sportswriters. Records and first place votes are in parentheses. Points are scored on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

Reinjures Wrist Boog Wants to Play

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Boog Powell of the Baltimore Orioles, playing with pain for half a season, sees no reason to go to the bench now despite an injured right hand.

"It hurts like hell," Powell said after aggravating his injury Tuesday in the third game of the World Series. "But I want to play, if Earl wants to put me in."

Manager Earl Weaver indicated he'd wait until just before tonight's fourth game before deciding if Powell would be in the starting line-up.

Powell has had a succession of injuries to his right wrist and hand since June, although he hit above .300 after returning to action in July, raising his season average to .256.

The big first baseman hurt his wrist while sliding in June, but it wasn't determined that he suffered a hairline fracture until X-rays followed another errant slide a couple of weeks later.

Near the end of the season, Powell was struck on the hand—not far from the fracture—by a pitch from Tom Timmerman of the Detroit Tigers. Then, in the American League playoffs, he aggravated his injury on another slide.

"It hurts all the time," Powell said after Tuesday's game. "But I really felt it in the ninth inning when I swung at that slow curve and missed. I tried to stop my swing, but I couldn't."

SINGLE SHOT

The Horicon Zone will become the center of attraction on the Wisconsin outdoor scene starting Thursday.

That day will mark the opening of the special goose hunting season for 24,000 hunters who received tags entitling them to one goose from the specified Horicon Zone.

Over 49,000 hunters applied for the tags, according to the Department of Natural Resources and the 24,000 successful ones were selected at a random drawing by a computer. The special Horicon hunt which opens Thursday will continue through Oct. 31.

Outside of the Horicon Zone, the statewide goose season has been underway since Oct. 2 and will continue through Dec. 10.

Game managers estimate that the goose population is now at 150,000 in the Horicon area and there is a build-up daily as more flights of geese arrive from the north.

An emergency regulation has been enacted to require that the goose tag be placed through the nostrils and then locked, rather than wrapped around the leg as in past years. The tags were received from the manufacturer just prior to their distribution to hunters, and the DNR was not able to test them until after they were mailed. They are too long, and will slip off a goose leg.

Two clarifications have been issued regarding the goose hunting regulations after questions were raised by hunters and some landowners.

The department says the daily and possession limits for geese are the same, a total of five, including not more than two Canada geese or Canada subspecies, or one Canada goose and one white-fronted goose, or two white-fronted geese. DNR has received inquiries because the wording of the daily bag and possession limits are not identical in the waterfowl regulations pamphlet.

DNR also advises that the northeast boundary of the Horicon Zone is Highway 45 between Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, and that the area between 175 and 45 between those two cities is within the Horicon goose hunting zone.

The regulations describe the zone as follows: "The Horicon Zone is bounded on the east by U.S. Highway 45 from Oshkosh to Fond du Lac, and then State Highway 175 to Addison; on the south by State Highway 33 from Addison to Beaver Dam and then U.S. Highway 151 to Columbus; on the west by State Highway 73 from Columbus to its intersection with State Highway 23, east of Princeton; on the north by State Highway 23 from the intersection with State Highway 73 to Ripon and then State Highway 44 to Oshkosh."

Around the state early reports indicate that ruffed grouse hunting has ranged from good to excellent.

Areas of the north and northwest, where many of the leaves have already fallen, are offering somewhat spectacular shooting with sharp-eyed gunners bringing bag limits home in routine fashion.

In addition to good hunting fall fishing has picked up in the northern part of the state and veteran anglers predict that the best is yet to come.

In the Crandon area, Lake Melunga has been yielding excellent catches of walleyed pike and around Boulder Junction and Woodruff the muskie action has come on strong.

Vikes Seek To Improve Blocking

While Steve Blomberg and Steve Ehren had two apiece.

Blomberg despite carrying only four times in the second half totaled 120 yards rushing and boosted his 4-game total to 450. The sophomore ace seems to come up with a few surprises each week, according to Roberts.

"The LI coach praised full-back Dan Bice's blocking and noted that his efforts often enable Blomberg to get past the line of scrimmage and start 'working on' the defenders."

Defensively, Roberts lauded the play of linebacker Steve Shepard. Little muddle guard John Draheim, linebacker Jim Sevard, tackle Harry Schonau and deep back Ken Zwolinski. Schonau has tough shoes to fill as a replacement for Haese, but he came through his first test in good style.

A number of other Vike defenders came up with big plays. For example, Dan Toven and Greg Ellers recovered Coe fumbles while Strat Warden and Shepard recorded interceptions.

Lanier Paces Piston Upset Over Knicks

76ers Down Bulls;
Haywood Hits 29
In Seattle Victory

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Muscular Bob Lanier, the hulking center who helped the Detroit Pistons get off on the right foot in the 1971-72 National Basketball Association season, will undergo X rays today for a possible fracture of his small left toe.

The 6-foot-11 Lanier, now a trim but still powerful 263 pounds, was told Tuesday night that his toe was broken after he had led the Pistons to a 91-84 victory over the New York Knickerbockers in the season opener for both clubs.

In other openers, Seattle overwhelmed Buffalo 123-90; Cincinnati trimmed Atlanta 127-113, and Philadelphia beat Chicago 114-100.

Lanier, the former All-American from St. Bonaventure who lost 22 pounds in a summer exercising program, said he bruised his toe Monday in an accident at home. "It was all right against the Knicks," he continued, "until somebody—either Willis Reed or Dave DeBusschere—jumped on it with five or six minutes left in the game."

Scores 29

Lanier finished the game, playing a total of 46 minutes, and wound up the game's high scorer with 29 points. He also grabbed 17 rebounds, tying the Knicks' Jerry Lucas for top honors. Afterward, the physician at New York's Madison Square Garden made the diagnosis of the broken toe.

"I hope I won't have to miss any games," said Lanier after outmuscled Reed.

After the game, the Pistons flew to Detroit, where Lanier will undergo X-rays of his ailing toe today.

Last season, his first in the NBA, Lanier was slowed by a right knee which had undergone surgery. Still, he averaged 15.6 points a game and was second on the Pistons in rebounding with 665.

The big pivotman also revealed that the Pistons had held a team meeting earlier Tuesday in an effort to smooth out some internal problems.

Some Bickering

"Some of the guys were bickering at each other," he explained. "We have an abundance of forwards and some of them were unhappy about not playing enough."

Dave Bing, the Pistons' scoring leader in each of his five seasons on the club, contributed 24 points against the Knicks, including 16 in the second half.

Reed, who underwent knee surgery after last season, paced the Knicks with 20 points, but snared only nine rebounds. Lucas, in his first regular-season game as a Knick, hit on only one of 12 field goal attempts. Over-all, the Knicks sank 36 of 94 field attempts for 38 per cent, compared to Detroit's 35-77 for 45½ per cent.

Holzman Disappointed

"It was a combination of their defense and our not adjusting, keeping our poise and getting the good shot," said a disappointed Red Holzman, Knicks' coach.

Spencer Haywood, the former Olympic star playing his first full season in the NBA, collected 29 points and 14 rebounds in leading Seattle's romp over Buffalo. Haywood made 11 of 14 field goal attempts as the SuperSonics hit 54 per cent from the field.

Dick Snyder added 24 points for Seattle, while Jerry Chambers and Walt Hazzard, both acquired from Atlanta in an off-season trade, shared scoring honors for the Braves with 14 points apiece.

Cincinnati, sparked by Tom Van Arsdale, also was hot from the field, shooting 51 per cent. Van Arsdale netted 34 points, including 22 in the second half when the Royals pulled away.

Nate Archibald chipped in with 27 points for Cincinnati. Lou Hudson led Atlanta with 26.

Archie Clark and Hal Greer, Philadelphia's standout backcourt combination, combined for 57 points, leading the 76ers past Chicago. Clark tallied 29, while Greer, one of the few players in NBA history with more than 20,000 career points, had 28.

Bob Love topped the Bulls with 34 points.

Switch Sites For Dolphin, Colt Contests

NEW YORK (AP) — The sites of the 1971 home and home series between the Baltimore Colts and Miami Dolphins have been switched because of a conflict with the Orange Blossom Classic, the National Football League said Tuesday.

Baltimore will play at Miami Sunday, Nov. 21 and Miami will visit Baltimore Saturday Dec. 11 instead as originally scheduled.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, said "The Baltimore at Miami game was originally scheduled for the Orange Bowl on Dec. 11 in all good faith and without the knowledge that it would conflict with the Orange Blossom Classic, sponsored each year by Florida A&M University. The change announced today was made after all reasonable efforts to resolve the conflict had failed."

Rozelle said that the game at Miami would start at 1 p.m. EDT and that the game at Baltimore would start at 4 p.m. and would be nationally telecast as originally announced.

dressing room banter much of it the result of frequent mentions in the public prints. I'm getting a little tired of seeing myself referred to as "Thirty-nine-year-old Zeke Bratkowski" in the papers," he said with a grin. I've been getting to think that was my first name."

he said "I'm only disappointed that we couldn't make it all the way back and win."

But it's a good sign from the standpoint of the team. We hung in there all the way. In the first half, we started to come back and in the second half we came back even further.

"As Coach Lombardi used to say, 'We didn't lose the game just wasn't long enough.' I'm disappointed but not discouraged."

"It's satisfying to go in and move the team against a team like Detroit," said The Brat who added, "I had great pass protection. Our line has done a sensational job both in run blocking and pass blocking. Our line has matured into a great offensive line."

Optimistic About Potential
As a result, you have to be optimistic about the potential of this team. If you can score that well against the Lions, you have to feel confident about the quality of your offense. And we have a fine defense too. Things happen from game to game offensively and defensively. Sometimes you have to give the other team credit for doing good things. There also are individual performances that affect a situation."

As might be expected, the veteran field general's age is the subject of considerable the decisions they make. And of course we've only played four games.

"Has to Be That Way"

We all work together. You can't be successful as a team unless you have the feeling it just has to be that way.

We're trying to develop the same kind of association now that I've had with Bart Starr for years.

Scott and Frank Patrick, all of us are working toward one goal — to win. We help each other in every way we can. We bring up things and remind each other of things. Bart also sits in on the movies with us and he visits with Scott.

"I don't think any of us would want it any other way," Zeke said. "It's always been that way here as long as I've been with the Packers."

Impressed with Hunter's talents, he says "Scott has grasped a tremendous amount of football in a short time with us. He came here well trained. They apparently do a tremendous job of teaching techniques and reading defenses at Alabama. He has fine potential."

At the same time he admits his role in regrouping the green and gold against Detroit gave him considerable satisfaction. "Our coming back like that made me feel good."

By nature, Edmund Bratkowski is a man of action. He has been known to jog six miles on a morning then play 18 holes of golf in the afternoon without perceptible fatigue.

Accordingly he was delighted over being summoned from the bench to direct the Packer offense in the second half of Sunday's near miss at Detroit which saw the venerable quarterback trigger a stirring three-touchdown comeback.

Yet, he is at least outwardly imperturbable over what has lately been a ready reserve role as Coach Dan Devine has gone with rookie Scott Hunter as his starting quarterback. The identity of the No. 1 quarterback may be of continuing concern to the Packer faithful but Zeke is not permitting it to affect his outlook.

And Devine is convinced it is having no untoward effect on the principals. "I don't think it makes any difference to either one whether he knows who is going to start or not," DD says. "Both of them are always ready to play."

A good soldier in the best possible sense, Bratkowski asserts with evident sincerity, "I don't think it should enter a quarterback's mind to evaluate his position. The coaches have their reasons for more pencil the other day." Secondly, the witch doctor "never fails. If the patient dies, as is frequently the case, it is simply conceded that the evil spirit is stronger than the medicine," says Ethel E. Thompson, a chemist who studied witch doctor medicines and practices in Africa.

Some witch doctors use trickery on the disease being treated—they usually brew their concoctions in secret and do not call a medicine by name before the patient recovers. A sickness is credited with having a personality capable of hearing, and it must not know the agent endowed with power to expel it.

Witch doctors have plant medicines, and a bagful of special things not likely to be adopted by Western medicine—include such items as herbal remedies wrapped in small glass balls, powdered horn of rhinoceros, pieces of crocodile skin, bits of bark, dried insects, and a smorgasbord of other specialties, Dr. Thompson says.

Witch doctors in Africa and their counterparts in Hawaii, Haiti and elsewhere use the native belief in magic and spirits and suggestibility to cast spells, sometimes frightening people to death. Those marked with a death spell have actually died within a few days to 10 days, Western doctors speculate that the cause may be shock produced by sudden release of adrenalin, or that the adrenal glands stop functioning, so the heart stops, too.

Old perhaps as the first tribal groupings is the witch doctor, many of them, as in Africa, can newsman and scientists of working on the belief illness is caused by evil spirits, which must be exorcised through incantations and with the aid of sometimes of potions of magic. The witch doctor, by all accounts, has two things going for him. One is his native wit and power of observation, which helps him determine the nature of illness, and the personality of his patient.

An American doctor tells of having his first meeting one day with a witch doctor in Africa, then seeing him a few days later, dressed in exactly the same clothes he had worn the first day, including having a pencil in his breast pocket. The witch doctor studied him momentarily, and said, "You had one heart stops, too."

Chinese doctors say they do not know how acupuncture achieves what it does, but they say it works, that for thousands of years it has helped patients with headaches, liver problems, fevers, pain, rheumatism, polio, asthma, kidney infections, TB and other diseases.

Some Doctors It's a mystery well worth investigating, say some U.S. doctors. Old perhaps as the first tribal groupings is the witch doctor, many of them, as in Africa, can newsman and scientists of working on the belief illness is caused by evil spirits, which must be exorcised through incantations and with the aid of sometimes of potions of magic. The witch doctor, by all accounts, has two things going for him. One is his native wit and power of observation, which helps him determine the nature of illness, and the personality of his patient.

Their only treatment, said Chinese surgeons, was to have a few three-inch long needles inserted into the webbing between thumb and forefinger. Does acupuncture involve the same kind of hypnosis or suggestion that there will be no pain, some ultraconfidence in his breast pocket. The witch doctor studied him momentarily, and said, "You had one heart stops, too."

But most doctors put down any medicine other than their own, medicines than their own. Many Western doctors say faith healing accounts for all the good results claimed by needle, witchcraft and herb practitioners. The human body, they point out, has remarkable powers of self-healing against infection and injury, even if no physical treatment is given—a fact that often assists Western doctors in their success as well.

But other physicians disagree that nothing more than faith healing is always involved, and are suggesting closer, more objective looks at acupuncture, yoga meditation, and herb and folk medicine around the world. In India, medicinal use of plants is mentioned in the Rig Veda, written between 4500 and 1600 B.C., which some historians call perhaps the oldest repository of human knowledge.

Later along came the Ayurvedic system of medicine, depending upon plants and herbs as main medicines (Indian literature lists more than 1,500 plants presumed to have some medicinal value) and which seeks a balance between three "humors" of the body to maintain health.

Ayurvedic physicians offer a 14-day "rejuvenation course," a shortened version of a 42-day treatment using massage, exercise, medication, a salt-free diet and other means aimed at curing chronic diseases. Proponents say further that cheap medicines and treatments offered by Ayurvedic and two other systems of medicine in India—Unani and Siddha—can cure chronic diseases, including paralysis cases, on which Western doctors have given up.

While such claims are disputed here, there's no question but that some medicines derived from herbs and plants used by the Indian practitioners and in folk medicine do have clinical effect. From plants came digitalis to aid a weakened heart, quinine for malarial fever, citrus juices to combat scurvy, and ephedrine to relieve asthmatic attack. From India came rauwolfia, leading to a potent tranquilizer, and a drug to control high blood pressure.

Folklore medicines are being re-examined or explored for the first time by small but increasing research programs. Scientists based in Hawaii are studying folk medicine of the Pacific Ocean, and have turned up some that show promise of anticancer activity, of being pain-killers and tranquilizers, or capable of inducing abortion. Natives knew about such properties. And a Swedish group is looking into the medicines of South American Indians.

Look at Yoga Other researchers are taking a new look at yoga, particularly a popular form known as transcendental meditation, finding that the meditative state produces a number of measurable physiological changes, such as reduced oxygen consumption and slowed heart beat, and changes in brain waves.

Some young people credit it with helping them give up drugs—marijuana, LSD, even heroin—because the feelings induced by drugs cannot compare with the mental experience from meditation.

Transcendental meditation is credited with relieving mental and physical tension, is being studied as a means of controlling blood pressure, and may have other uses in clinical medicine, say some researchers. It induces a mental state quite distinct from wakefulness, sleep, dreaming, or the states produced by hypnosis and auto-suggestion, one careful study concludes.

Witness Surgery Quite startling and baffling are the descriptions by American newsman and scientists of witnessing surgery performed in China with acupuncture as the only anesthetic—including cantations and with the aid of skulls opened and brain surgery carried out while the patient calmly with the surgeon, are orange slices, apparently feeling no pain, while clapping in their hands the little red book of Chairman Mao's thoughts.

Their only treatment, said Chinese surgeons, was to have a few three-inch long needles inserted into the webbing between thumb and forefinger. Does acupuncture involve the same kind of hypnosis or suggestion that there will be no pain, some ultraconfidence in his breast pocket. The witch doctor studied him momentarily, and said, "You had one heart stops, too."

But most doctors put down any medicine other than their own, medicines than their own. Many Western doctors say faith healing accounts for all the good results claimed by needle, witchcraft and herb practitioners. The human body, they point out, has remarkable powers of self-healing against infection and injury, even if no physical treatment is given—a fact that often assists Western doctors in their success as well.

But other physicians disagree that nothing more than faith healing is always involved, and are suggesting closer, more objective looks at acupuncture, yoga meditation, and herb and folk medicine around the world. In India, medicinal use of plants is mentioned in the Rig Veda, written between 4500 and 1600 B.C., which some historians call perhaps the oldest repository of human knowledge.

Later along came the Ayurvedic system of medicine, depending upon plants and herbs as main medicines (Indian literature lists more than 1,500 plants presumed to have some medicinal value) and which seeks a balance between three "humors" of the body to maintain health.

Ayurvedic physicians offer a 14-day "rejuvenation course," a shortened version of a 42-day treatment using massage, exercise, medication, a salt-free diet and other means aimed at curing chronic diseases. Proponents say further that cheap medicines and treatments offered by Ayurvedic and two other systems of medicine in India—Unani and Siddha—can cure chronic diseases, including paralysis cases, on which Western doctors have given up.

While such claims are disputed here, there's no question but that some medicines derived from herbs and plants used by the Indian practitioners and in folk medicine do have clinical effect. From plants came digitalis to aid a weakened heart, quinine for malarial fever, citrus juices to combat scurvy, and ephedrine to relieve asthmatic attack. From India came rauwolfia, leading to a potent tranquilizer, and a drug to control high blood pressure.

Folklore medicines are being re-examined or explored for the first time by small but increasing research programs. Scientists based in Hawaii are studying folk medicine of the Pacific Ocean, and have turned up some that show promise of anticancer activity, of being pain-killers and tranquilizers, or capable of inducing abortion. Natives knew about such properties. And a Swedish group is looking into the medicines of South American Indians.

Look at Yoga Other researchers are taking a new look at yoga, particularly a popular form known as transcendental meditation, finding that the meditative state produces a number of measurable physiological changes, such as reduced oxygen consumption and slowed heart beat, and changes in brain waves.

Some young people credit it with helping them give up drugs—marijuana, LSD, even heroin—because the feelings induced by drugs cannot compare with the mental experience from meditation.

Transcendental meditation is credited with relieving mental and physical tension, is being studied as a means of controlling blood pressure, and may have other uses in clinical medicine, say some researchers. It induces a mental state quite distinct from wakefulness, sleep, dreaming, or the states produced by hypnosis and auto-suggestion, one careful study concludes.

Movie Firms Ready To Sell Studio Land

Revenue Needed for Industry Survival;
Film Properties Represent Choice Lots

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In their search for survival, Hollywood's film studios are looking to real estate for much-needed revenue.

Most big studios were started a half-century ago, when Los Angeles land was dirt-cheap. Values have greatly increased, and now the film lots represent some of the choicest parcels in the metropolitan area.

Since studio facilities are not needed as much as cash, some companies are of a mind to sell or develop their properties.

The film community was shocked recently to learn of an agreement by which Columbia would sell its 11½-acre studio and 34-acre location ranch and move in with Warner Bros. The urgency of the economy was underscored when Columbia's annual report was released, a loss of $28 million.

Paramount also sought to share quarters with a rival and has been negotiating with both Universal and 20th Century-Fox. The talks were dropped last month, and Paramount will seek other devices.

A year ago, the 52-acre Paramount lot, which includes the former RKO studio, changed status. It is now a separate company, half owned by Paramount's parent firm, Gulf and Western, and half by an Italian real estate developer, Societa Generale Immobiliare. Paramount rents space on the lot, along with other producers.

"Because of the studio's size—the biggest single piece of property in Hollywood — it has a fiduciary relationship to the community," says Irving Horowitz, head of Paramount studios, Inc.

"We will give very careful consideration to the property's development. We have real estate in an area that is closely involved with entertainment. You don't run away from natural resources." Among the possibilities for Paramount: a trade center with a film studio as its base; an integrated small city.

MGM has sold its nearby 68-acre Lot 3, mainly outdoor locations, to Levitt and Sons for $7.2 million. It will become a housing and shopping area. The adjacent Lot 2, about the same size, is also up for sale. MGM expects to retain most of the 41-acre main lot.

20th Century-Fox was the pioneer in real estate development, selling its 300 acres nine years ago for development by the Aluminum Corp. of America. The studio retained 76 acres for its own operations on a 99-year lease. With Century City rising on its old back lot, Fox is now getting into development on its own leased land.

First project is a high-rise office building.

"We consider real estate one of the most valuable assets of the company," says Lewis Wolff, president of the 20th Century-Fox Realty and Development Co. The company recently leased six of the 12 acres of the obsolete Western Avenue studio for a shopping center. So far, no change for the 2,700-acre location ranch in Malibu Canyon, but Wolff admits to "some far-out plans, including a private park."

Universal has the most land of any in-town studio—420 acres just over the hill from Hollywood. "We have made master plans and studies about use of the property," says a spokesman. "As of now, we have no plans beyond film making and studio tours—and the Sheraton Universal Hotel. But other uses are constantly under survey."

Only Warner Bros. among the major studios has no real estate ambitions. It is busily making preparations for its new co-tenant, Columbia.

Stunt Pilot Frank Tallman crashes a World War I biplane into a ranch house on purpose in this scene being filmed near Hollywood. Tallman was flying in place of actor Cliff Robertson, who portrays an ex-Army flier turned barnstormer. The scene required an entire day of preparation and filming has the plane hit the building as it comes down following engine failure. Tallman, heavily padded, was unhurt but his flying stunt partner, Paul Mantz, was killed in a somewhat similar movie stunt several years ago. (AP Wirephoto)

World Series Big Action In Baseball

BY TV SCOUT

7:15-10 Channel 5 — BEST BET — The World Series Game tonight has the Baltimore Orioles meeting the Pittsburgh Pirates at Pittsburgh, Pa. Curt Gowdy and Bob Prince report the action on what promises to be an exciting game.

7-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Francine York gets the plum role of Venus turned Vanessa through some witchcraft on Bewitched. The Stephens are in Rome where troublemaking Endora (Agnes Moorehead) turns a gorgeous statue of the gorgeous woman into a flesh-and-blood piece of gorgeousity.

7-8 Channels 2-7 — The Carol Burnett Show has another of those delicious old movie spoofs, this time with Carol as "Sonja Honey." Harvey Korman (playing S.Z. "Cuddles" Sakal) as her uncle and Ken Berry as "Yonny Yones," a bandleader-composer. This is a major skit, with original music and Carol hysterical "skating" everywhere. Cass Elliott is the other guest, joining Carol in a medley of songs about marriage.

8-8:30 Channels 11-9 — After a long stakeout, Chad (Henry Fonda) gets a day off, which he plans to spend with his wife. But other members of The Smith Family keep getting in the way: Bob (Ronny Howard) who has three original chapters of Karl Marx' Das Kapital, and Cindy (Darlene Carr) has a new boy friend who doesn't think cops are human and Brian (Michael-James Wixted) has a really traumatic experience: woman's estranged husband.

he's going to his first party where the guest list includes — ugh — girls.

8-9 Channels 2-7 — Pamela Payton-Wright, a fine young actress, gives Medical Center what believability it has. She plays a young evangelist who needs surgery for a aneurysm and in order to convince her, Dr. Gannon (Chad Everett) makes her face some truths she doesn't want to see. 9-10 Channels 11-9 — The Man and the City gets into the area of political pressures as Alcala (Anthony Quinn) must make a decision regarding a new police chief. He's convinced his temporary chief (Simon Oakland) is the man for the job, but a lot of pressure is being brought on him by a young city councilman, played by Michael Bell.

9-10 Channels 2-7 — Mannix (Mike Connors) has a story where the characters change complexions and stories after each commercial, so viewers will be absorbed. This is a well-written script, with believable characters: Ina Balin as a girl the way: Bob (Ronny Howard) who has three original chapters of Karl Marx' Das Kapital, and Cindy (Darlene Carr) has a new boy friend who doesn't think cops are human and Brian (Michael-James Wixted) has a really traumatic experience: woman's estranged husband.

Thus, at the end of the calendar quarter, the employer's Social Security tax liability amounts to 10 1/4 per cent of the wages paid.

This would occur when you hire a cleaning lady, babysitter, cook, handyman, or anyone to work in or around your home and pay that individual at least $50 in cash wages in a calendar quarter.

These wages must be reported and the Social Security tax paid at the end of each calendar quarter.

To secure the necessary reporting forms, contact the Appleton Social Security office and ask for Pamphlet No. 21. The office is located at 1801 N. Richmond Street, and the telephone number is 739-7744.

THE POST-CRESCENT

In cooperation with the Wisconsin State Employment Service announces a program designed to assist area veterans who are seeking employment.

FREE WORK WANTED ADS FOR VETERANS

The Post-Crescent, with the cooperation of the Wisconsin State Employment Service is initiating a program of free work-wanted ads to aid our returning veterans who are seeking employment in the Post-Crescent circulation area.

Returning servicemen and women need and deserve our help and they often have something extra to offer an employer . . . Veterans have experience in many fields and hundreds of specialties . . . Trade, clerical, technical, professional and supervisory skills. In fact the services spend some $3 Billion a year on training and there's over $1 Billion more available for training through the GI Bill and Manpower Development and Training Act.

Disabled Veterans receive special vocational rehabilitation to provide them with skills. Equally important, Veterans offer an employer maturity, self discipline and motivation.

Do your part! Urge your firm to hire and train the Veteran.

TO HIRE A VETERAN . . . check the special "Work Wanted Veteran" column daily in the Classified Advertising Section of The Post-Crescent.

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)
The Nixon administration's decision that it's all right after all, to use phosphates in laundry detergents leaves the housewife in the middle—caught between concern for the environment and protecting her family's health.

"What are you supposed to do?" asked a young Los Angeles mother.

"They've been telling us phosphates are bad for the environment and I don't want to contribute to water pollution. But my family's health comes first."

Her dilemma stems from advice issued Sept. 15 in Washington by William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld. They said the housewife should return to use of water-polluting phosphate detergents because some substitutes might harm health.

The main phosphate substitute is sodium carbonate, a caustic substance. Rub some detergent containing it on a wet arm or hand and it might cause a burn. Rub it in the eyes and it could cause serious damage. If swallowed, it can bring death.

Baby Dies
A 15-month old girl died Aug. 15 in Putnam, Conn., when she ate a handful of nonphosphate detergent, according to Arthur F. Blank, director of the Poison Control Center in Hartford, Conn.

Phosphate detergents, however, are considered nontoxic. And phosphate eliminates mineral impurities or "hardness" in water so that soap can do a better cleaning job.

But the phosphates end up in lakes and rivers from sewage plant effluent and can spur excessive growth of tiny green plants called algae that rob other aquatic life of oxygen. The process, eutrophication, can turn a lake into a stagnant pool of green slime.

"I don't blame the housewife for being confused. This is a sophisticated problem and there's no simple answer for every housewife," Charles Elkins, special assistant to Ruckelshaus, said in a telephone interview.

Elkins said the first consideration should be safety of the family, especially if small children are present.

"But we're not reversing ourselves. What we're saying to the housewife is you've got to assess your individual situation. You've got to see phosphate in your sewage is contributing to eutrophication. If it is, use a substitute, unless you have small children. Then you might want to use a phosphate."

But, he stressed, using a nonphosphate detergent if there are preschool children about "isn't worth the risk for what one would do for the environment."

Next, the housewife must consider the amount of cleaning power she needs. Phosphates are popular because they do a good job lifting dirt out of heavily soiled clothes.

Nonphosphate detergents' cleaning power can be boosted with "soft" water that has been purified by an ion exchange device. Homeowners can purchase. But adding a "water conditioner" to wash water isn't advised because it's composed largely of phosphate compounds.

One manufacturer who sells both phosphates and sodium carbonate to detergent makers concluded from tests that the substitute detergents don't clean as well.

But the magazine Consumer Reports said in its October issue that four non-phosphate detergents it tested "did the wash every bit as well as the best-selling high-phosphate detergent."

Estimates are that only 15 per cent of the nation's population lives near water where eutrophication is a serious problem. But all of these areas haven't been pinpointed, so the EPA plans a study to locate them.

Several state and local governments have enacted or have under study tough laws regulating phosphate content in detergents. The administration suggested they reconsider such regulations.

Spokesmen for the nation's three largest detergent manufacturers, Procter & Gamble, Lever Bros. and Colgate-Palmolive, said they plan no changes in their products as a result of the administration announcement.

How do you tell which detergents have phosphates?

List on Box
Most major manufacturers have begun voluntarily listing phosphate content on each box. Most nonphosphate detergents are advertised as such.

Estimates are that only about one-fourth of the phosphates reaching waterways comes from detergents. The res comes from agricultural fertilizer runoff, other wastes in sewage, soil erosion and other sources.

Elkins and the detergent manufacturers stressed that the search for a safe, efficient synthetic substitute has high priority.

One synthetic substitute, nitrilotriacetic acid—NTA—was found that did a good job washing clothes. But it was banned last December when tests showed it, too, could endanger health.

Elkins said the housewife who lives along a coast probably isn't contributing to eutrophication by using a phosphate detergent. If she lives on the Great Lakes, she might be. If her sewage treatment plant's effluent is discharged into salt water or a moving stream, eutrophication probably isn't a problem.

Some of the confusion over detergents may be cleared up later this month when the conservation subcommittee of the House of Representatives holds hearing on the subject in Washington.

The bright red label
... says it all!
Colorfully

What is in store for your child?

Fortune telling is not a science, nor even an art. Happily, it is now restricted to carnival side-shows and hole-in-the-corner "tea shops." Yet it is possible, on the basis of facts and signposts, to make intelligent guesses about what the future holds for your child. It is necessary to make such estimates, since your child's present-day education supposedly prepares him for the world as it will be 15 or 20 years hence. Just consider how much the world has changed in the past decade or two and how the rate of change keeps accelerating.

On the basis of the available facts I was able to help my oldest son make his initial career decisions more than ten years ago. At that time physics was touted to young people interested in the sciences. The indications were, nonetheless, that this field was about to reach a temporary plateau and that future opportunities were limited. I didn't tell my son that I thought this to be a possibility. I let him find out for himself by directing him to reliable sources of information that led him to similar conclusions. After completing his undergraduate degree in bio-chemistry he is now attending medical school and is very happy with his career choices so far.

Interpret Trends

Any parent can do as much for his son or daughter. All you need do is inform yourself, be willing to read and interpret trends, ignore fads that stand in the way of common sense and sound judgment and listen to your teen-ager and his friends when they discuss their plans. You then have an opportunity to suggest avenues for them to explore that you and they can discuss together in a "future" oriented manner.

I have assembled some of the likely predictions that are likely to affect your teen-ager's career choices in my new book Career Choices for the Seventies (Crowell-Collier Press). The following are some of the probable trends that you and your child should take into consideration in planning for his higher education and future. High-school years or even junior high school years are not too soon a time to discuss them over your dinner table.

A college education will become less important for young people who choose to enter careers other than professions. Unless your child wants to become a teacher or to study subjects like science, law, history, anthropology, or literature among others, he'll be better off in a vocational school. If so you can forget the "College Entrance" rat race directing your child to explore some of the various avenues in the field of art, technology, service, management or craft to which he is inclined. A liberal arts education will count for very little in the employment picture of the future.

Grading System To Be Changed

KALKAUNA - At the initial meeting of the Holy Cross Home School Association (HSA) Sister Joseph Marie, principal announced that the school will introduce a new method of recording pupil progress. The principal said Holy Cross is one of 10 schools undertaking the program. Exact type of recording has not yet been decided. She said but the old grading system will be abolished.

Parents are to be told about the new program which it is hoped she said will result in parents and teachers working together to help the child learn at his own level, competing with himself and not with other children.

The principal also introduced faculty members and women volunteers who assist teachers in the school.

Plans also were discussed at the meeting for the first hot dog day to be held Oct. 28. Mrs. Robert Lamers and Mrs. DeWane Gilchrist are co-chairwomen.

Nixon Hunts For Members Of Key Boards

WASHINGTON (AP) — After winning organized labor's cooperation in his post-freeze economic controls, President Nixon turned today to lining up members for two key boards that will vote on future wage-price increases.

With the 90-day wage-price freeze due to expire Nov. 13, time is becoming crucial on the appointments. The boards must be operating with wage and price guidelines developed by that time.

The White House said membership on the 15-member Pay Board and the 7-member Price Commission will be announced soon. Some potential members contacted "are not particularly interested," said one official.

As the search for members went on, the administration readied legislation that may spell out details of Nixon's Phase 2 program.

Panel of Judges
Not only would the bill provide standby authority to control interest and dividends, one official said, but it would create a panel of judges to hear wage-price cases and would empower the Pay Board and the Price Commission to issue subpoenas.

The threat of a labor boycott of post-freeze controls collapsed Tuesday when the nation's three most powerful union leaders agreed to help Nixon's Pay Board try to control inflation.

But the labor leaders, AFL-CIO President George Meany, Teamsters President Frank F. Fitzsimmons and United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, acted only after Nixon gave assurances the tripartite board's decisions would not be subject to a veto by the Cost of Living Council.

Personal Okay
The President did so in a memorandum sent to the labor leaders personally initiated with his "OK."

"We will serve on the Pay Board," said the union leaders, who represent some 17 million workers. Nixon responded by saying "the country won" by the decision.

But the agreement between labor leaders and the administration is still fuzzy. It still is not clear how the post-freeze mechanisms will operate.

Labor had withheld its support of Phase 2 because the administration held out the possibility the Cost of Living Council could exercise veto power over general wage criteria developed by the Pay Board.

Senate Passes State Budget For 2nd Time

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — For the second time this session, the Republican-controlled Wisconsin Senate has passed and sent to a hostile Assembly a no-tax-increase state budget.

It signalled renewed determination by the GOP to oppose Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's proposal for a nearly $2 billion state budget during the current two-year fiscal period.

The Republican proposal provides for the spending of $304.7 million over the last biennium, money the GOP says is being provided by natural economic growth over 1969 levels.

The bill, which was forwarded to the Assembly Tuesday on a 22-11 vote, omitted reference to an increase of nearly $111 million in new taxes requested by Lucey and other Democrats.

Tax Increases
The funds sought by Democrats would come primarily from hikes in personal and corporate income taxes.

Democrats labelled the GOP bill a "fraud" and an attempt to "improve the Republican image."

Minority Leader Fred Risser D-Madison, said the bill had a "known deficit of more than $52 million," Sen. Dale McKenna, D-Jefferson, called it "another piece of lousy trash."

Risser predicted the measure would be drastically amended by the Democratic-controlled Assembly and sent quickly back to the Senate, perhaps sometime this week.

Republicans declared they believed it essential for the new bill to be enacted prior to next Monday's deadline for local school boards to announce their new budget.

Property Rates
Local taxing units will set property tax rates on the basis of school needs.

"If this bill isn't passed by Oct. 18th, the governor will be the sorriest person in state politics," said Republican Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek.

Lorge noted that Assembly Democrats have been holding up passage of a compromise budget bill, pending agreement by Republicans to Democratic proposals for a revised formula for tax distribution to local governmental units.

Assembly Democrats have declared repeatedly they cannot obtain the necessary 51 votes for passage of a budget bill unless the distribution formula is significantly changed to aid poorer communities.

"Most of the delay," Lorge said, "can be blamed on the uncrowned governor of Wisconsin—Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier."

Sen. James Devitt, R-Greenfield, warned that unless the legislature passed the GOP budget bill, property taxes for some of his constituents would jump from $5 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation to $19.

Structural Flaws Ground Costly C5

WASHINGTON (AP) — Structural problems have led to grounding of the entire Air Force fleet of 47 giant C5 transports, and sparked new criticism of the problem and cost-plagued craft from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

The Air Force said Tuesday the grounding was ordered after cracks were discovered Monday in one of the engine mounts on a C5 at Charleston Air Force Base, S.C.

Proxmire, a persistent critic of the plane, said the grounding should outrage every American taxpayer.

Unless the Air Force forces Lockheed to make the necessary corrections at its own expense, Proxmire said, he will attempt "to place a ceiling on this endless outpouring of billions of taxpayers' dollars for such pitiful waste."

In a statement, the Air Force said the latest grounding was "another precautionary measure resulting from continuing inspections."

Last week, 29 planes were restricted while investigators determined what caused an engine to tear loose from a C5 preparing for takeoff Sept. 29 at Altus AFB, Okla. That incident also involved the left outboard engine mount which holds the engine to the wing.

Officials said the investigation is continuing but complete information is not yet available. "In the meantime, tests and analytical data on fatigue strength of the engine pylon structure are being collected," the Air Force said.

The Lockheed-Georgia Corp., builder of the plane, said last week its engineers had notified the Air Force the engine mounting was "an area of potential weakness" in C5s that had accumulated long hours of flying time.

Lockheed said an engineering change was proposed to strengthen this area of the wing but the Altus incident occurred before the change was made.

An Air Force spokesman said without the planes, the shipment of some cargo will be delayed.

Minority Business Assist Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon outlined today a two-year $100 million plan to combat the "enormous economic inequities" which he said still confront minority businessmen.

In a special message to Congress, Nixon proposed legislation intended to establish 100 local centers to "bring together vast array of training, advice and information for minority businessmen."

Nixon said advances in promoting minority enterprises during his administration "is a record of which we are proud." But he called for Congress "to join with the administration in a still more intensive and far-reaching effort to foster business development among minorities."

"There is no easy way to eliminate the barriers which now prevent many who are members of minority groups from controlling their fair share of American business," Nixon said. "Yet the long-range health of our economy—and, indeed, of our entire society—requires us to remove these barriers as quickly as possible."

Major elements of the program which Nixon described as comprehensive yet flexible are: —$100 million in appropriations in the next 18 months to expand the minority enterprise program. Nixon's original budget request for this year was $36 million, but he subsequently raised that to $43.6 million. Today he disclosed he would propose a budget of $63.6 million in fiscal 1973 for the Office of Minority Business Enterprise. Nixon said 90 per cent of the money would be spent on the local level with emphasis on creating the 100 informational centers.

—Legislation to bolster the Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Companies, which make loans from a pool of federal and private capital. He asked that the required private capital for a new MESBIC be cut from $1 million to $500,000, that the Small Business Administration be allowed to purchase preferred stock of MESBICs and that SBA be allowed to grant low interest loans to the investment companies.

—An executive order giving priority to minority businessmen in the awarding of federal contracts.

Logical Extension of Policies

Nixon's Moscow Trip No Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's announcement that he will attend a summit conference in Moscow next May should have come as no surprise, say U.S. officials and foreign diplomats.

"It is a logical extension of the growing improvement in American-Russian dealings since Nixon took office," one diplomat said. "The only surprise is that so few people were talking about the possibility."

One of those who did talk in advance about such a trip was Soviet Communist party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, who U.S. sources say had been discussing a Nixon visit with several people for several weeks.

But whether it should have been a surprise, the fact is that Nixon did catch many people off balance when he appeared unexpectedly at the routine Tuesday morning news briefing and said:

Lower Levels
"The leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union in their exchanges during the past year, have agreed that a meeting between them would be desirable once sufficient progress had been made in negotiations at lower levels."

"In light of the recent advances in bilateral and multilateral negotiations involving the two countries, it has been agreed that such a meeting will take place in Moscow in the latter part of May 1972."

Following reading of that announcement, released at the same time in Moscow, the President told questioning newsmen he had agreed to the Moscow summit because of "a possibility of making significant progress."

Although he declined to detail what areas will be discussed with the Soviet leaders, Nixon indicated the talks will cover arms control, the Mideast, a European security conference and a balanced, mutual troop cut in Central Europe.

Summit Talks
Nixon was specific in outlining the areas of progress he said led to the summit talk agreement.

"We have had a treaty with regard to the seabeds. We have had one with regard to biological weapons. We have had an agreement coming out of the SALT talks (strategic arms limitation talks) with regard to the hotline and accidental war and, of course, most important of all—and I think this is the item that, for both us and for them, led us to conclude that now was the time for a summit meeting—we have had an agreement on Berlin."

What made no difference in settling on a Moscow summit in May, the President declared emphatically, was his plan to visit mainland China before that month.

"The two," he said, "are independent trips. We are going to Peking for the purpose of discussing matters of bilateral concern there. And I will be going to the Soviet Union for the purpose of discussing matters that involve the United States and the Soviet Union."

Inaccurate Forecast

"Any speculation to the effect that one has been planned for the purpose of affecting the other would be entirely inaccurate."

Congressional reaction was positive. "I cannot see where anything but good can come from it," said House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla.

Similar statements came from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and his generally conservative colleague, Colorado Republican Gordon Allott, who said he approves of the trip.

Nixon himself indicated he expects good results from the summit, which will be his third visit to the Soviet Union but the first for any American president while in office.

Nixon said he has constantly pointed out to the Russians and the American people: "I did not believe a summit would three years later when President John F. Kennedy and something was to come out of viet leader Nikita Khrushchev. I do not believe in having met in Vienna and a 1967 summit meetings simply for the purpose of having a meeting," said House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla.

Kitchen Debate Highlight Of Nixon's Last Soviet Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Richard Nixon last went to Moscow, the Kremlin ignored him. And then there was the time that he and Nikita Khrushchev stood toe-to-toe in the kitchen debate, one of the landmark exchanges in Cold War annals.

The President announced Tuesday he will attend a Moscow summit next May after his visit to China, marking his first return to the Soviet capital since March of 1967.

On that occasion, while eyeing the Republican presidential nomination the following year, Nixon said the trip was needed "to give me a feeling of what's going on in the whole world."

But upon his arrival, he was denied permission to meet with Soviet leaders, treated instead as just another tourist. Said Nixon: "A government without an opposition is apparently not willing to recognize the opposition party in another country."

He went on, however, to visit several other Russian cities, including Alma Ata near the Chinese border, and said he came away "tremendously impressed" by "the friendliness of the Soviet people."

On several occasions he was asked by Russians about his stand on U.S. presence in Vietnam, and he said he supported President Johnson. Once he said "South Vietnam has asked for our help in defending itself, just as you asked for our help against the Nazis."

Nixon also made a "private" visit to Moscow in 1965. But by far his most remembered journey to the Kremlin was the one he made as vice president in July of 1959.

Overtones Aplenty
Ostensibly, the purpose of that trip was to open an American exhibit at a Moscow fair. But there were overtones aplenty, such as expectations that Khrushchev might be invited to the United States, and—on the cooler side—the simultaneous proclamation by Congress and President Eisenhower of "Cap-

Shaped Destiny During Truman Era

Architect of U.S. Foreign Policy, Dean Acheson, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson died Tuesday night, 18 years after leaving the post he used to establish policies that still serve as the foundation for much of America's diplomatic strategy.

Acheson, 78, was found slumped over his desk about 6 a.m. at the Sandy Spring, Md. farm he used as a refuge from the pressures of a public career encompassing some of the nation's monumental crises.

The family doctor said the death apparently resulted from a heart attack.

Although he served as an assistant U.S. negotiator in the monetary reforms conference of the early 1930s, it was as secretary of state during the last four years of the Harry S. Truman administration that Acheson made his mark on American destiny.

NATO Organizer
During the period from 1949 to 1953, Acheson was the major factor in formulating the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, signing the peace treaty with Japan, outlining the political strategy of the Korean war, determining U.S. attitudes toward the Communist government of China and resisting the domestic onslaught of the so-called McCarthy era.

While attitudes toward China and Moscow are now relaxing, many of these policies remain intact today under the administration of a Republican President who was one of Acheson's major critics during the Truman years—Richard Nixon.

And it was Nixon who led the tributes to Acheson after his death.

"He was a man not only of great achievement," the President said in a statement, "but also of rare intellect, of rigorous conscience and of profound devotion to his country."

Miss Counsel
"As President I have been deeply appreciative of the advice that I have asked and that he has so freely and graciously given. I shall greatly miss both his wise counsel and his peac-turning wit.

The nation, the Western alliance and the world all share in the loss of one of their staunchest champions."

Former President Truman described by Acheson as one of the greatest Americans did not have an immediate comment but Mrs. Truman said "I know he'll be very disturbed."

It was another part of President Nixon's statement that the importance of Acheson to the world was underlined.

Of those who stand for a time in places of power many are quickly forgotten," Nixon said. "It is a measure of Dean Acheson's stature as man and statesman that almost 20 years after his service as secretary of state he continued to be regarded as one of the towering figures of his time.

In a time when presidents make most of their own foreign policy, it is instructive to look back on the Acheson years when President Truman gave his secretary of state a near free hand in diplomatic affairs.

It was with this freedom that Acheson, a Connecticut-born bachelor with a sharp tongue, handled the major, established the basic U.S. Cold War strategy.

Starting with the premise that the Soviet Union was a major threat to world security, Acheson implemented a series of policies designed to surround the Soviet Union.

Women's Equality Bill Wins in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ado-82 senators had introduced equal rights for women amendments, but one, including the right to be tried by a jury, have capped a half-century fight by winning a major House victory. But prospects for quick Senate approval are doubtful.

By a 354-23 vote, the House approved Tuesday and sent to the Senate a constitutional amendment extending specifically to women the "equal protection of the law" guaranteed under the 14th Amendment.

The vote on the equal-rights resolution came on the day of another victory for women's rights advocates. President Nixon confirmed that two women are among the handful being considered for two vacancies in the Supreme Court.

"The big vote gives added impetus and momentum to the equal-rights movement," said Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., chief sponsor of the equal-rights resolution. "I do not see how the Senate can deny passage of the amendment."

But she was pessimistic about quick Senate action. "One of the main snags last year was our assumption that the Senate would act. After all, their own amendments, but they didn't take any action."

Mrs. Griffiths had led the successful fight to trim from the resolution a provision that women be exempted from the military draft and that states be permitted to enact or retain laws protecting the health and safety of women.

Before adopting the resolution the Senate eliminated that provision by a 265-87 vote.

Opponents of the provision called it a device to kill the equal-rights amendment.

Similar Provisions
The proposed amendment has passed the Senate three times over the years, but always with a similar provision attached.

A resolution like Mrs. Griffiths' has been placed on the Senate calendar. But consideration of the measure isn't expected until next year because of the press of other business.

If the Senate approves the measure and the legislatures of 38 states ratify it, it will become part of the Constitution.

The states would have seven years to act, and the amendment would become effective two years later.

Outagamie County supervisors, in an unusual coalition, rejected efforts to redistrict themselves down from 47 to 42 and ordered the board's special idea next month.

Using the argument that Appleton hadn't yet settled upon its ward lines, supervisors who wanted fewer than 42 districts and those who objected because of being thrown into districts with other incumbents, voted the months delay without much opposition.

The 42-supervisor plan, which is based on Appleton's proposed 20-ward set up to keep ward and supervisory district lines coterminous, was attacked as allowing Appleton to dictate county reapportionment.

Smaller Board

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, who wants a smaller county board and who, under Appleton's ward plan, would end up in a district with two other incumbent supervisors, claimed that Appleton, by maintaining its 20 wards, was prohibiting the county board from going below 42 supervisors.

"The city took away any argument we had for a smaller board because of the boundary lines," Kloes said. He added that if the city wanted to combine the offices of alderman and supervisor, their plan has "committed us to a large board."

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, chairman of the special reapportionment committee and another proponent of a smaller board, also urged postponing action.

Can't Accept

Referring to a proposed Appleton ward map, Wussow said, "We can't accept a map that is not final."

Grand Chute Supv. Harold Miller, another member of the reapportionment committee urged immediate action. The delay in the Appleton ward map only involved minor adjustments, he said, not the number of wards. "We must make some decision tonight or we won't reapportion before the end of the year," he warned.

"Regardless of what we do, Appleton will draw its lines based on population," Miller added. "Someone is bound to get hurt."

He was joined by Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Buchanan, DeBruin, alluding to efforts to bring in a plan with fewer supervisors, said, "The board indicated it wanted to hold to between 41 and 47. I think COG did a good job, (on the 42-supervisor plan)."

Appleton Supv. Fred Rehfeldt wanted to know if the month's delay would have any effect on the circulation of nomination papers in January. "Is this just a stall?" he asked.

Wussow assured him the delay was not a stall. "We just want a chance to bring in more than one plan."

Decision Near On COG Fate As Plan Unit

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Fox Valley Council of Government officials probably will decide Wednesday whether to dissolve the metropolitan planning agency at the end of this year.

COG is faced with severe financial problems and the possibility that several of its municipal members won't stay in the organization next year. Seven of the 14 are on the books as officially having resigned already.

The entire affair is wrapped up in political maneuvering and a bitter fight with Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, the other regional agency based in Appleton.

New federal and state planning guidelines dictate that only one agency can serve the area, and the two agencies have been struggling for the upper hand. Several COG members gave notices of withdrawal last summer in hopes of forming a new agency but that effort fell through and now some members have been reluctant to get back in.

It appeared that both agencies might continue for at least another year until the attorney general's office issued an opinion that COG wasn't operating under legitimate legislation.

so its federal funds have been held up. The funds are part of its operating budget, and its reportedly is nearly out of money.

Its only hope for getting the funds was Assembly Bill 73, which has been stalled through efforts of Gordon Bubolz, North eastern's chairman, and others. The bill was approved by the Assembly and may be considered by the Senate, but its chances of passage are questionable.

Urged to Decide

With this uncertainty, COG members will have to decide if they want to continue the agency. They must give 60 days notice of withdrawal, under COG bylaws, which means they must decide by Oct. 31 whether to get out by Dec. 31.

A hint of the impending crisis was seen at the last COG meeting when Menasha Mayor James Adams, COG finance committee chairman, urged all members to decide soon if they would stay or get out so the 1972 budget could be prepared. Communities pay based on their valuation.

The finance committee was meeting in executive session today in what may be a sneak preview of Wednesday's meeting. Lawrence Michaels, COG

Hilbert Receives Income Tax Return

HILBERT — State income tax return of $16,932, a total of $4,000 more than last year's October payment, was reported by Treasurer Mrs. Arthur Fruess at the village board meeting Tuesday. The money brings the total general fund balance to $25,000.

An additional $5,000 is in a certificate of deposit — from last year's income tax return.

The board agreed to renew the certificate but to keep this year's increase in its regular account.

Mrs. Fruess reported that an additional $10,000 in revenue may come by the end of the year. Expenditures are expected to amount to $21,000, leaving a balance of $14,000 cash on hand, plus the $5,000 certificate of deposit.

The figures, however, do not include expenses for street work on Ninth and Chestnut Streets.

President Orville Manz, commenting on the healthy financial state of the village, noted that "a cushion will come in handy for the increased school tax".

The village of 890 population has had water and sewage facilities since 1941; has all paved streets; owns street and up-to-date garbage collection equipment; has two full time employees and has a municipal building and fully equipped fire station. The municipality is debt free.

The funds reported do not include water and sewage funds, or fire contract monies which are kept in separate accounts.

The November meeting was advanced to Nov. 8, and Manz asked trustees to anticipate expenses because preliminary budget figures will be discussed at the meeting. He also asked that consideration be given to setting starting dates for road work. He pointed out that more time is needed today to allow for permits and permission from state agencies, and that working late in the fall is "hard on our employees and engineers".

Trustee Vernon Schomburg was told to investigate the purchase of a flowmeter for the sewage plant. The instrument was authorized at a previous meeting, but Schomburg said he had done nothing about it because he felt the village should wait to see what was going to be done about the present plant. The board agreed, however, that the instrument was necessary to accurately gauge the amount of liquid entering the plant.

Manz signed a proclamation from the Kupsh-Brockman American Legion Post, proclaiming the fourth Monday in October Veterans Day in the village. The day, previously had been observed Nov. 11, but has been changed by Congress.

At Clintonville

Hopes High for Industrial Tenant

CLINTONVILLE — Several inquiries about possible use of the former Hansen Glove Corp. building on Seventh Street have been received.

Kenneth Spearbraker and Basil Arvey of the industrial development committee report that news to other members of the board of directors of the Clintonville Association of Commerce at a meeting Monday.

One firm is interested in expanding its present operation to the Clintonville area. A major obstacle at present is its extensive use of electric power, which would require the construction of substation at a cost of at least $65,000.

The directors were informed that the city has approved the placing of signs in the Industrial Park area, listing the industries in it.

Directors agreed to run an advertisement concerning the industrial opportunities in Clintonville in the Sunday section of a Milwaukee newspaper.

The cost, about $100, is shared by the Association of Commerce and the Industrial Development Corporation.

Association President Dave Husman reported that officials of Lauder's Department Store, which will be out of its present location by Dec. 31, have not announced future plans. The commercial development committee was directed to top, one of several schedules propose a meeting at the firm's headquarters to discuss its future plans.

Husman also reported that payers will have no tax increase in the 1971-72 approved operational budget.

James Schroeder, chairman of the community affairs committee, reported that Frank Urbanz, who is to serve as chairman of the annual farm institute.

The retail promotion committee and Husman met with the city's finance committee concerning Christmas street decorations. It was decided that for this year, the present decorations on hand would be used.

The committee requested that a plan be prepared with layouts, and costs and alternatives, to replace and/or add to the street decorations for next year. The plan is to be submitted to the finance committee prior to next year's budget in order that the committee may consider including this in its budget.

Husman, who attended the Waupaca County board of directors meeting Oct. 6, reported that the meeting mainly concerned the budget and the Waupaca County Story booklet. There will be 25,000 copies printed and Clintonville's ad will appear near the middle back of the booklet. It is planned to rotate the location of the various city ads in future publications.

The salary of the secretary for the Association of Commerce was set at $100 per month.

Carter was appointed chairman of the nominating committee for four new members for the board of directors for 1972.

Basil Arvey reported that there is an old film on the "FWD Story," available for use by local clubs or schools. Spearbraker added that the Lions Club also has available an old film on the City of Clintonville, which may be used by any group requesting it.

Referendum Date Set for New School

WAUPACA — The board of education voted unanimously Tuesday to conduct a referendum Dec. 6 for a new school.

The referendum will call for the school district to borrow $1,990,000 in an issue of general obligation coupon bonds for the construction and equipping of a new high school building.

Polls will be open on that date from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Waupaca Memorial Armory.

The board has hired Quarles, Herriott, Clemons, Teschner and Noelke, Milwaukee as legal counsel.

Also, the board has approved payment of the building program on a 16 year schedule at plans. The commercial development committee was directed to top, one of several schedules propose a meeting at the firm's headquarters to discuss its future plans.

Husman also reported that payers will have no tax increase in the 1971-72 approved operational budget.

DNR Board Looks Into Carp Killing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Board looked into a state carp radiation program Tuesday, but took no action on the controversial issue.

Spokesmen for the Department of Natural Resources, Vern Hacker and A.E. Ehly, endorsed the program. Hacker conducted the recently completed Tomorrow-Waupaca River Carp eradication program, and Ehly is supervising a massive rock River project.

Both said the use of antimycin is the most effective and best way available for ridding streams and lakes of carp.

Environmental groups have been critical of the eradication program, claiming the treatment alters the ecosystem and that not enough research has been done to rule out future ill effects of antimycin.

Date Changed for Solo and Ensemble Contest

CLINTONVILLE — The southern section of the Bay Music Conference has changed its solo and ensemble competition date to March 18 at Oconto Falls because of a conflict with the district forensic contest.

The music festival date remains the same, May 13.

Clintonville District Board Has Look at New Proposals

CLINTONVILLE — Supt. V. J. Wadleigh gave a brief look at Project 1, C. E. (Instruction-Curriculum-Environment) at the district board of education meeting Monday night at the Lonsdale School.

Samples of the K-12 curriculum developed under this program were viewed and discussed. It was reported that six schools in the three CESA agencies involved will put it into use this year.

The 45-15 continuous school year plan being used in Lockport, Ill., was discussed. Its advantages and disadvantages, cost, classrooms and vacation problems and other items were considered. In this plan, pupils are divided into four groups, each of which attends school for 45 class days and then has a 15-day class vacation. The attendance schedules for the groups are spaced 15 class days apart so that only three of the four groups are in school at the same time.

Board members were provided with copies of a report on full day kindergarten by Robert Gilstrap, executive secretary of the National Education Association. The board was charged by the annual meeting to evaluate the transportation program in kindergartens and transportation of pupils.

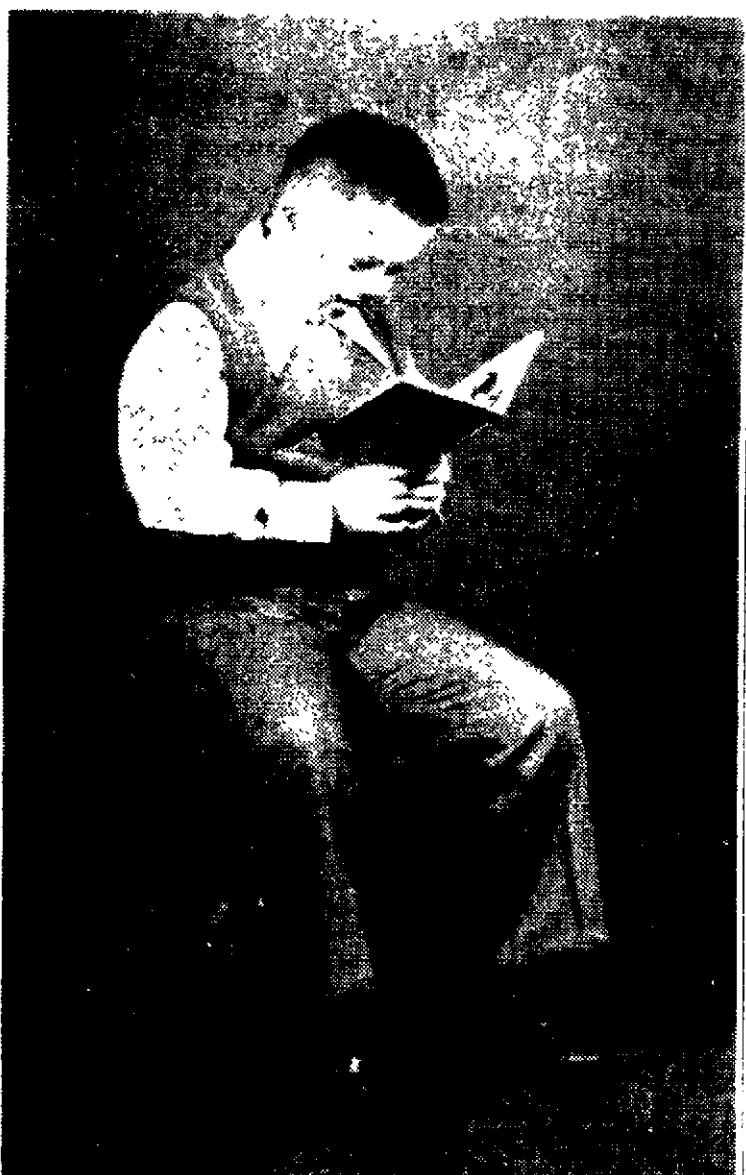

A brief summary of accomplishments during the summer library project was presented, including a suggestion that the Bear Creek and Embarrass certified for employment for schools have card catalogues two years of at least five persons with the federal fund. It was noted that there are 31 pupils from Clintonville school district enrolled in the Fox Valley Technical Institute, Appleton, this semester.

New Guides

Senior High Principal Thomas Fischer and Guidance Director Peter Ferrara commented briefly on the aeronautics curriculum meeting held here last week. Board members plan to attend a performance improvement committee are working on curriculum guides, and that they plan to involve not only zero-view the re-located classrooms but also related fields at Hortonville on their way to Oshkosh.

Two changes to the bus policy were given their first reading. Board members will attend One addition provides that within the two mile limit, pupils living on heavily traveled highways will be transported to 25 at 6:30 p.m. in place of school as a safety measure having their regular board meeting this fall of 15 and 22 and County Truck C. The next meeting this fall of the bus policy will be Oct. 20.

Jay Rieckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Rieckman, Fremont, has been named the 1971 poster child for the Waupaca County Association for Retarded Children. He will represent the county's 647 mentally handicapped during National Retarded Childrens Month during November. Jay, who is 9 years old, attends the trainable class at Parkview School at New London.

'Wage Antipollution Fight Now'

WAUPACA — Over-population, said, "Those who look, read and exploitive domination of the environment."

Treeless, Desert Land

Yerkes said the problems began when man ceased to be a hunter and a gatherer. In creating the huge cities hills were denuded of their forests.

"What the Creator took millennia to perfect, man has ruined in eight generations to develop and exploit this continent," He called technology without man's numbers on a planet that has only a finite capacity to sustain life. "Finding easier and faster ways to obtain and distribute the man want to or deserve to, the man is standing at the crossroads of success or failure as a biological species. The fossils tell a story of the 'unsuccessful species' he said. "Man, however, is the first organism that is capable of destroying, preserving and recreating his environment."

Thomas M. Benner, senior analyst for Loewi and Co., Inc., cost classrooms and vacation problems and other items were considered. In this plan, pupils are divided into four groups, each of which attends school for 45 class days and then has a 15-day class vacation. The attendance schedules for the groups are spaced 15 class days apart so that only three of the four groups are in school at the same time.

"Each succeeding population doubling period takes less time. There will be 4 billion people living on the earth by 1975, doubled to 8 billion by the year 2000 and to 16 billion by 2030 — with food production showing no increase," he pointed out.

Work Together

He urged every man to look to the problem. "Join a group to demand changes which will be nonpolluting, such as an economical means of mass transit. Change the present system of helter-skelter urban development through zoning for proper use of land. Join with action groups, support them with your dollars, your hands and your minds."

"Conservation is no longer the question of beautifying America, or saving the wildlife. It is the more basic question — Does the man want to or deserve to, the man is standing at the crossroads of success or failure as a biological species. The fossils tell a story of the 'unsuccessful species' he said. "Man, however, is the first organism that is capable of destroying, preserving and recreating his environment."

FOOD IS TODAY'S BEST BUY:

To those who remember when a loaf of bread cost a nickel, a quart of milk 10c and sirloin steak was 39c per pound. It may seem strange to call today's food one of our best values. Food prices have gone up but our wages have gone up too. More than food costs. In fact, we Americans now spend a smaller part of our income for food than ever before—about 16c out of each dollar of income after taxes. An hour's wage for a factory worker will buy for more "groceries" today than it did in the "good old days". That hour of work would bring home less than a pound of bacon in 1914, 2 lbs. in 1939 and 3 1/2 lbs. today.

A further check shows food costs in the United States as the lowest in the world. Based on percent of wages, here are a few examples: Denmark 23c; Belgium 24c; Germany 31c; Italy 36c; United Kingdom 23c; Australia 21c; Poland 47c; Bulgaria 54c; and U.S. 16c. The world's most efficient agriculture and food marketing system has helped make this possible.

Blass Cools Off Orioles' Bats With Nifty 3-Hitter

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Left-hander Luke Walker, who has spent much of the season in Manager Danny Murtaugh's doghouse, had the job of keeping Pittsburgh rebounding against Baltimore tonight in the first World Series game ever played at night.

The Pirates, stung for two straight losses in Baltimore, bounced back with a 5-1 victory Tuesday. It came on the three-hit pitching of Steve Blass.

Face Cincinnati Hollandtown '11' Plays Saturday in Buckeye Bowl who left his personal scouting report 250 miles away—and a three-run homer by Bob Robertson, who missed a bunt sign and swung away.

Now if Walker can make a couple of mistakes like that, Pittsburgh will really be back in business.

Walker has a deceptive record. He was 10-8 during the regular season but won four of those decisions in the final month.

Murtaugh, however, suspected that he was working with a sore arm—a cardinal sin in the Pirate Manager's mind. So Walker was passed over in the playoff series against San Francisco and in the first two Series games at Baltimore, when the Orioles belted the Pirate pitching staff.

"Sure, I've wondered a lot about why I haven't been used," said Walker. "But I just keep my mouth shut. Number 40 (Murtaugh) has the answers."

Meanwhile, Murtaugh hoped Walker was the answer for the Pirates against Pat Dobson, the fourth 20-game winner the Orioles have thrown at the Pirates.

Pittsburgh finally caught up with one of the Birds' aces in the third game when Robertson rifled his homer against Mike Cuellar to put the icing on Blass's strong pitching job. The funny part of the homer was that it was supposed to be a bunt.

Roberto Clemente opened the seventh inning by reaching first on an error by Cuellar. Then Willie Stargell walked for the third time in the game. That brought up Robertson and Murtaugh flashed a swing sign on the second pitch. Robertson fouled the ball off, and in the dugout, Murtaugh decided to switch signals.

"We saw that Brooks Robinson was playing him deep at third," said Murtaugh. "so we decided to bunt."

Third base coach Frank Ocek dutifully passed the bunt sign along and both runners saw it. But Robertson didn't. He swung away and the ball soared over the 365-foot sign in right center for a three-run homer.

When the red-haired slugger crossed home plate, Stargell greeted him with a grin and said: "That's the way to bunt."

That's when Robertson realized he had missed a sign.

"It's the first time I've missed one all year," he said. "If I had seen it, I would have bunted. But a bunt was the farthest thing from my mind. I wanted to swing the bat."

When Robertson got to the dugout he went over to Murtaugh.

"I guess I fouled up," the slugger told the manager.

"Possibly," replied the laconic skipper, just a hint of a smile curling his lip.

The three-run cushion was plenty for Blass, who had been in a 2-1 pressure cooker until Robertson connected.

"I was so excited about being in a World Series game, that I didn't sleep all night," Blass said. "I kept lying awake, thinking about lots of things. How things were at home . . . the weather . . . Frank Robinson . . . Brooks Robinson . . . Boog Powell . . . Willie McCovey . . . Hank Aaron . . ."

Asked if he had prepared for the Orioles in any special way, Blass said he had watched the first two games of the Series on a monitor television in the dressing room at Baltimore.

Forgot Notes

"I made some notes. And to show you how much they helped me, I forgot them and left them in Baltimore."

So, with nothing more than the regular Pirate scouting report to work from, Blass went about the job of dealing with the Orioles, who had slugged 24 hits and 16 runs in the first two games of the Series.

"I was totally confused about what to do after they hit all those homers in the first game and all those singles in the next one," said Blass.

Manager Murtaugh talked the problem over with Blass before the game.

"Danny told me to pitch my own game," Blass said. "If I got beat, I wanted it to be against my best stuff."

"He put everything in the whipped Chicago North Austin, 36-0, the Muskego Chargers, 40-6, Brillion, 40-6, Wrightstown Rockets, 38-0, and the Little Chute Jets, 28-0.

The Muskego team was considered one of the strongest in the state and had a 37-game winning streak before running into the Raiders.

"We try to play the toughest competition we can get," Wurdinger said. It was on this basis that the Hollandtown unit was selected for the bowl game Saturday. The committee in charge screens grade school teams from throughout the country and then invites the two strongest it can find.

18-game Schedule

The Tomahawks play an 18-game schedule in a season and usually cover a 10-state area for their contests. Up until last weekend, the Tomahawks were not only undefeated, but also unscored-upon this season and they have not lost a game in the past 4½ seasons or allowed their opponents a touchdown in the last four full campaigns.

One of the Cincinnati team's victories this season was by 40-0 over the Canadian champion, Hamilton of Ontario. Prior to that game, the Canadian team was undefeated and unscored on.

The Tomahawks carry a full 40-man squad, the same as in pro football.

"They have specialty teams, they run out of a wing formation," Wurdinger said.

Snead Has 'Added Something More' to Club Devine Sees Vikings as 'Total' Team

GREEN BAY — For the last three years, a virtual "era" as such things are reckoned in the fast changing sports world, the Minnesota Vikings have been pre-eminent in the Central Division of the National Football League.

Throughout that span, their dominance has been attributed almost exclusively to a smothering defense, keyed by the marauding likes of Carl Eller and Alan Page.

Dan Devine was not on the scene when the Vikings crunched to successive division titles in 1968, '69 and '70 and thus is not in a position to document or dispel that impression.

But, he is quick to note there is considerably more to the current Vikings than the fearsome Purple Gang, sometimes referred to as the Four Norsemen, who lead the Minnesotans into Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon to confront the Packers.

"I would go so far as to say they are the most complete team in the league," the Packer leader asserted from behind the desk in his dressing room office Tuesday afternoon. "Personnel-wise, they don't have any weaknesses."

Their kicking game (with Fred Cox) is sound, in fact it's better than sound. And they also have a good offense, in addition to that great defense.

"The Vikings are a very patient football team," he also observed. "Of course, when you have a good offense, in addition to that great defense."

Vikes Recall 1968

No LU Overconfidence

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Their contender status having been improved by St. Olaf's first loss of the season (26-23 to Ripon last Saturday), the Lawrence University Vikings are preparing for their homecoming clash (against Carleton College) Saturday with increased determination.

Monmouth (4-0) is now the only Midwest Conference team running ahead of Lawrence (3-1), and the Scots meet a tough Cornell team this weekend. Cornell, Ripon, St. Olaf, Knox and LU are all 1-loss teams in hot pursuit of Monmouth.

Vike Coach Ron Roberts said Tuesday there's no chance LU will take Carleton lightly even though the Knights (0-4) have had a rough time of it. "I remember a bout Carleton," noted Roberts in reference to the 8-7 loss to the underdog Carls in 1968 — a defeat that ended a long LU winning streak. "I gained a real respect for them," added Roberts.

Out for Season

Roberts got more bad news from the injury front this week, learning that starting defensive back Tom Liedtke's injured knee will keep him out for the rest of the season. Last week, the Vikes lost first-string defensive tackle Gary Haese.

In last Saturday's 30-12 win over Coe, Roberts said he was "pleased" with the Vikes' defensive play and generally satisfied with the offense — except for "some of our interior blocking." Needless to say, LU is spending extra time on that phase of the game this week.

Roberts also cited an early-game pass-receiving breakdown, up with nine completions, including a 10-yard touchdown pass, Smith to John Stroemer. The 6-2, 196-pound Stroemer wound up with four catches, Turn to Page 4, Col. 1

Blows Breakfast Nerves Get to Blass Before Game, Birds Never Solve Fast Ball

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For-proach to life. He reads a lot about what I have to do in a World Series," he said. "Before I pitched Tuesday, I tried to go to sleep for three hours—and it was eight o'clock before I knew it, and time to get up and get ready for the ballgame."

Blass wasn't counting sheep, he said. "I was counting people . . . Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell . . ."

He also blew a $3.60 breakfast.

"I couldn't eat," he said. "I just couldn't get the food down."

What did he have? "A slice of toast, medium rare and a few pulmonary wheezes," he quipped.

But despite the butterflies

Pick Curtis Top Defender

NEW YORK (AP) — "We've two passes, lead the defensive always felt," Baltimore line-backer coach Hank Bullogh said, "that Mike Curtis was the best middle linebacker in pro football. 'Olympian' Harrier Test Set Thursday

REEDSVILLE — An exciting duel for the Olympian Conference individual championship shapes up at 4:30 p.m. Thursday as Reedsville plays host to the loop's cross country meet. Defending Mishicot is tabbed as the probable team winner.

However, about a half dozen runners could make off with the individual title.

Top runners include Mishicot's Tom Garceau, Valder's Bob Wiegand and Paul Oswald; Hilbert's Pat Gast; Reedsville's Dave Nate; Brillion's Dan Fischer and Randy Zutz and Denmark's Dennis Apts.

"Their defense is what impresses me," observed Manawa coach, Bob Lieberman, when he was asked to evaluate his team's next foes, the Bonduel Bears, in this week's key Central Wisconsin Conference clash.

If the Wolves (3-0) can defeat Bonduel (2-1), they will move into a tie for first place with the Little Chute Mustangs (4-0), who are idle.

The big contest between the Wolves and the Bears will be a match between the defenses which have yielded the fewest points during three loop battles. Manawa has surrendered 14, while Bonduel is close behind with 16.

The confrontation will either make or break the Bears, who were the undefeated CWC champs in 1970 "This will be our toughest game of the year," said Bonduel's technician, Jim Jaeger. Titans' Peshel Top Offensive Player

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Halfback Bill Peshel, who scored three touchdowns in Oshkosh's 20-14 victory over River Falls, is the Wisconsin State University Conference offensive football player of the week.

Mike Bracco, and ace running back, Jeff Johnson, should go a long way to make the Chiefs' ceremony game a success.

Elther Marion (0-3) or Wittenberg-Birmamwood (0-3) could pick up its first CWC triumph of the season and emerge from the cellar when the two squads meet on the Mustangs' turf. Marion, plagued with injuries throughout the year, has surrendered the most points (114) of any Central Wisconsin team, while the Chargers' offense has managed to muster only one TD in three battles.
